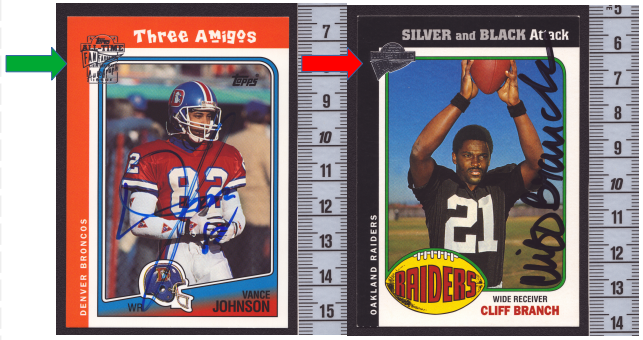
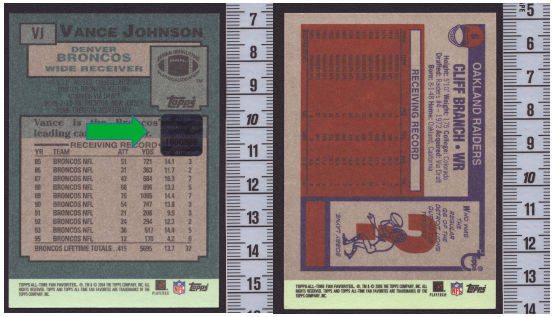
Featured Mini-Article: Beware The Autograph Parallels

Autographs, one of the most collectible insert types for trading card collectors. However, as with all awesome things, one must always beware of those trying to get one over on you. While forgeries are a common issue for collectors, today we're going to talk about cards that are legitimately signed, but which are not the insert they are presented as being.

Below, we have two samples from our database:



At first glance they may appear to be from the same autograph line, but the one on the left is a real one, whereas the one on the right is an after-production signed base insert card. Thankfully, most manufacturers add ways to tell the difference, though they are not always obvious.



There are two ways to tell for this one. First, the stamp at the top-left of the front is different on the real one, clearly stating "Autograph". Second, there is a holographic, serial-numbered sticker on the back of the real parallel. So always remember, verify before you buy!

The Collectosaurus Project News

With the first issue of our standard-format Expeditions periodical we thought it would be a great time to share our roadmap for the ongoing development and expansion of this periodical. So, without further ado, we present our roadmap:

EXPEDITIONS Gazette Roadmap

Expansion 1: Split Into Two Editions	This expansion will see the monthly issue split into two editions: a CCG/TCG edition and a non-gaming Trading Card version. Each will have their own unique xARTIST card. Expansion Goal: $2,000 Monthly Expeditions Sales
Expansion 2: Add Comics and Toys Editions	This expansion will add two monthly editions for Comic Books and Collectible Toys, such as Action Figures and Dolls. Additional xARTIST cards, or a similar collectible, will be included. Expansion Goal: $4,000 Monthly Expeditions Sales
Expansion 3: Regularly Updated Online Blog	This expansion will add a regularly updated blog that features a greater number of collectibles related articles and content in-line with what is featured in the printed edition. Expansion Goal: $8,000 Monthly Expeditions Sales

This roadmap is just the beginning. If we are successful in reaching our first three expansion goals, we have plans to set additional goals to aggressively expand the periodical into a proper magazine and add professional large-scale collectible manufacturing capacity. The sky's the limit and we hope you continue to join us on our journey!
